Drunk drivers not learning: Police

► Checkstop numbers showing more arrests per shift is not encouraging, say cops ► New legislation shows promise: MADD

SHELLEY WILLIAMSON
@METRONEWS.CA

The Edmonton Police Service has released holiday Checkstop numbers and while officers are catching more drunk drivers per shift, it's not something that lifts their spirits.

"Overall, we're quite happy with this year's Checkstop campaign," said Const. Trevor Shelrud of the EPS impaired driving countermeasures unit.

"Unfortunately, it seems that people still aren't getting the message. And you would think with all the media attention surrounding the new legislation, and some of the other high-profile events that occurred in December, that we would have seen some reduction, but unfortunately we didn't."

Cops nabbed nearly 100 impaired drivers and issued 24-hour suspensions to 128 drivers

By the numbers

- Police had 37 Checkstops in 2011, including some by the EPS traffic unit as well as the impaired driving countermeasures unit.
- Throughout 2010, there were 55.
- During the New Year's weekend police also dealt with three flights involving drivers, one of whom almost hit an officer, and a cocaine arrest resulting from a Checkstop.
- The average number of impaired drivers picked up per Checkstop shift was 6.8 in 2011, over 2010's 5.8.
- Throughout all of 2011, EPS Checkstops netted 250 impaired arrests, 367 suspensions for 24 hours, 636 traffic tickets, 35 suspended drivers and 71 other criminal charges.

ers in December.

While EPS had fewer Checkstop operations overall in 2011, arrests were up 15 per cent per shift this year, Shelrud said.

That's upsetting, but not surprising for Gillian Phillips, Edmonton's Mothers Against Drunk Driving spokesperson.

"It's very disappointing when we hear what the figures are," said Phillips, whose daughter was killed by a drunk driver in 2000. "We hope with the new legislation we will see a difference in next year's Checkstop numbers."

Phillips said the fact the police are planning to be out in full force in 2012 to round up impaired drivers is good news, and she's hopeful the new law's mandatory-education components will help repeat offenders finally get the message.

Same goes for police.

"We will be out there 12 months this year doing Checkstops in 2012," said Shelrud, adding dates have already been set for this year's campaign.

► Sanding trucks are slated to cover the city, looking for problem spots, after a spate of freezing rain and warmer-than-normal days.

City hopes to avoid slippery slopes

► Sanding crews sifting through residential areas, arterial roads, bridges, in wake of rain ► Residents urged to keep walks free of snow, ice

SHELLEY WILLIAMSON
@METRONEWS.CA

Road crews are hoping proactive efforts will prevent Edmontonians from slip sliding away after warm weather and freezing rain this week.

"Some of the hills and the shaded areas are pretty bad and we are responding to them today, but the forecast for tonight is freezing rain and we want to be ahead of that potential risk of ice freezing again," said Roland Aitchison, superintendent of operations for the city's roadways branch.

Trucks have been out in full force since Tuesday, spreading sand on slick alleys and roadways, including in residential areas.

One benefit of higher temperatures this week is that it allows for salt, which doesn't work below -17 C, said Aitchison.

Sand-truck drivers are checking all roads and sanding where they deem necessary, he said.

Though Wednesday saw a record high, crews are braced for the worst.

The dirt on sanding

- Sanding crews are dispatched on 24-hour cycles, which are set to wrap up Thursday at 7 p.m.
- The city's snow budget is $47.6 million for 2012. Last year's budget was overspent by $30 million,

"After last winter's snowfall, we are prepared for anything at this point," said Aitchison.

Meanwhile, the city's by-law branch is asking residents to keep walks clear or LRT riders using the Health Sciences station will encounter construction this year as an overhead pedway is installed across 114 Street linking University Hospital to the new Edmonton Clinic South and Edmonton Health Academy.

"The pedway will provide users of the hospital with improved pedestrian safety," says Paul Michna of Alberta Infrastructure. "It will reduce street-level congestion and allow University Hospital students and staff a climate-controlled environment in moving through the area."

Michna says the heaviest construction will be done during off-peak hours and weekends.

"Throughout the project, pedestrian access to the Health Sciences LRT station will be maintained. We, with the city and contractors (PCL Construction), will keep disruption to a minimum."

about the project.

"We want to reassure customers that they'll still be able to access trains during construction time," says Patricia Dickson of Edmonton Transit.

The pedway will be located over the north end of the station and provide access to the LRT platform with escalator, elevator and stairs.

Band votes on eviction bylaw

IAN JACKSON/THE CANADIAN PRESS

► A young boy was fatally shot in this house on the Samson Cree First Nation reserve July 11, 2011, near Hobbema, Alta.

A crime-troubled First Nation south of Edmonton was voting Wednesday on whether to give community leaders the power to evict suspected gang members.

If the referendum by the 7,000-member Samson Cree band in Hobbema passes, any 25 residents could apply to have someone legally removed from the reserve.

The plan to hold the vote was approved after the chief's five-year-old grandson was killed by a gunshot in July while sleeping in his bedroom during a drive-by shooting, but it also reflects concern about ongoing gang violence.

Samson resident Roy Louis said people are fed up with crime, but there are also concerns that such evictions would mean gang members would simply move to one of the other three reserves in the Hobbema area.

"It is fine and dandy to have a bylaw to banish some of the gang members, but it has to be in sync with the other three nations," Louis said.

"We don't want the gang members to simply cross the street to the Ermine-skin First Nation or the Louis Bull First Nation or Montana First Nation."

Police seek witness to fatal hit-and-run

Edmonton police are asking a witness to a fatal December collision to come forward.

Around 6:30 p.m. Dec. 22, police say a GMC Sierra struck a 59-year-old woman near 124 Street and 132 Avenue. The victim was pronounced dead on the scene.

Police believe a man was westbound on 132 Avenue, approaching 124 Street, when he stopped to help.

He assisted until EMS arrived, then drove away in his green Dodge Caravan.

He is described as an older (possibly 50s) Asian or Hispanic male, about five feet six with a stocky build, short hair, a moustache and an accent.

Police are asking the man to call the EPS at 780-423-4567. ● METRO

Mubarak instigated killings: Prosecutor

The prosecution in the Hosni Mubarak trial said on Wednesday it has concluded that Egypt's ex-president, his security chief and six top police officers were the "actual instigators" of the killing of more than 800 protesters during last year's popular uprising.

Mubarak and his seven co-defendants are facing charges of complicity in the killings and could face the death penalty if convicted.

Wednesday's hearing coincided with the second day of voting in the third and final round of parliamentary elections that began on Nov. 28. Even before the final round, Islamists led by the Muslim Brotherhood, Egypt's largest political group, were assured a majority in the legislature.

They are likely to bolster their gains in the final round, since many of the nine provinces voting have been Islamist strongholds.

Racist U.K. killers jailed for decades-old murder

► Two white men sentenced for 1993 killing of black teenager

A young black man lay dying in a south London bus stop. His friend called frantically for help while a gang of white teenagers who had stabbed him ran off. Two members of that gang were sentenced Wednesday for the 1993 murder of Stephen Lawrence, but three more remain at large.

Judge Colman Treacy Wednesday sentenced Gary Dobson to at least 15 years and two months in jail, and David Norris to at least 14 years and three months for the murder of the teenager, and urged police to continue looking for new leads in the case.

He told the men they were guilty of "a terrible and evil crime" committed out of blind hatred.

"A totally innocent 18-year-old youth on the threshold of a promising life was brutally cut down in the street in front of eye witnesses by a racist thug-gang," Treacy said. "You were both members of that gang."

Police, who have been accused in the last two decades of incompetence and racism in the way they handled the murder inquiry, vowed Wednesday to continue to hunt for the remaining killers.

"The other people involved in the murder of Stephen Lawrence should not rest easily in their beds," said Bernard Hogan-Howe, commissioner of London's Metropolitan Police.

The saga of Lawrence's murder, and his parents' long quest for justice in the face of police indifference, has for many come to symbolize Britain's lingering racial trauma.

It has embarrassed Scotland Yard, which was found by an official inquiry to be guilty of systematic racism. And while Lawrence's family said it was pleased with the convictions, it said justice will not be served until all the killers face trial.

Lawrence's father Neville said the sentencing of Dobson and Norris for his son's murder was "only one step in a long, long journey."

Dobson and Norris were part of a notorious gang that terrorized part of south London, and many people told police in the days following Lawrence's death who his killers were

But the police failed to act until Lawrence's parents held a news conference to criticize the way the police had handled the case. It was the first salvo in a long battle the Lawrence family were to fight with police and courts.

The sheer length of time it has taken to prosecute the case has taken its toll. Lawrence's parents divorced six years after his death.

And Britain's police forces still struggle to convince ethnic minorities that they handle cases with sensitivity. The parents of Indian student Anuj Bidve, who was shot and killed on a night out in Salford, north-east England, on Dec. 26, complained that they learned about their son's death from Facebook before British police contacted them. A Catholic bishop caught at the Ottawa airport with hundreds of child-porn images on his laptop was released Wednesday after receiving a sentence of 15 months — only eight of which he actually served behind bars.

Raymond Lahey, 71, formerly bishop of Antigonish, N.S., pleaded guilty eight months ago to possession of child pornography for the purposes of importation and asked to begin serving his sentence immediately.

Wednesday, Justice Kent Kirkland sentenced him to 15 months, but because he got two-for-one credit for

Online porn helps cut abuse: Expert

The key witness in Raymond Lahey's sentencing is working on research he believes will show that sexual deviants who consume child pornography are less likely to abuse children now that child porn has gone online.

Dr. John Bradford, head of the division of forensic psychiatry at the University of Ottawa, has testified as an expert in numerous criminal trials and was a defence witness at Lahey's sentencing hearing.

His conclusion that Lahey was not a risk to children and, in fact, not a pedophile, despite possessing images and videos of children and teens, was a key part of the defence argument for a lesser sentence.

"pre-sentencing" time served, Lahey was freed. He will be on probation for two years and registered as a sex offender for 20 years.

His lawyer, Michael Edelson, had recommended the minimum one-year sentence, but said Kirkland imposed "exactly the right

The jail time, Edelson added, is just the beginning.

Outcry over abused Afghan girl seen as sign of progress

► Yet some fear women's rights will erode as foreign troops withdraw

Just 15 years old, Sahar Gul has become the bruised and bloodied face of women's rights in Afghanistan.

According to officials in northeastern Baghlan province, Gul's in-laws kept her in a basement for six months, ripped her fingernails out, tortured her with hot irons and broke her fingers — all in an attempt to force her into prostitution. Police freed her after her uncle called authorities.

Despite guaranteed rights and progressive new laws, Afghanistan still ranks as the world's sixth-worst country for women's equality in the UN development program's annual Gender Inequality Index. Nevertheless, Afghan advocates say attitudes have subtly shifted over the years, in part thanks to the dozens of women's groups that have sprung up.

Fawzia Kofi, a lawmaker and the head of the women's affairs commission in the Afghan parliament, says the outcry over a case like Gul's probably would not have happened just a few years ago because of deep cultural taboos against airing private family conflicts and acknowledging sexual abuse — such as forcing a woman into prostitution.

Ending abuse of women is a huge challenge in a patriarchal society where traditional practices include child marriage, giving girls away to settle debts or pay for their relatives' crimes, and so-called honour killings in which girls seen as disgracing their

And some women activists worry that their hard-won political rights may erode as foreign troops withdraw and President Hamid Karzai's gov-

Family celebrates long line of birthday repetition

Jan. 4 birthdays have been running in one Ohio family for four generations.

Richard Stiff of the Toledo area turned 65 on Wednesday. The day is also the 34th birthday of his daughter, Julia Gonyer, and it's the first birthday of Gonyer's daughter, Kourtney. The string began with Stiff's late father, Marshall Stiff, who was born Jan. 4, 1924.

The Blade newspaper reports that some people can't believe it when they learn about all the births. Others have said it's kind of creepy.

All four family members arrived Jan. 4 through unscheduled, natural births. The birthdays have traditionally been celebrated with one cake and one singing of Happy Birthday.

L.A. arson suspect put on suicide watch

The German man charged with allegedly setting a string of fires across Los Angeles on New Year's weekend has been put on suicide watch, a law enforcement official said Wednesday.

Harry Burkhart, 24, has been in custody since Monday, when he was arrested in Hollywood.

Burkhart's mother, Dorothee Burkhart, said in court Tuesday that her son is mentally ill.

He has refused to co-operate with investigators since his arrest on suspicion of starting dozens of car fires in and around the city that caused an estimated $3 million US in damage.

Authorities said they believe he was angry over his mother's legal troubles and went on an arson rampage a day after she made an initial court appearance last week.

Burkhart is also under investigation in his home

The fire at the house, which belonged to the Burkhart family, has been ruled an arson, Marburg prosecutors' spokeswoman Annemarie Wied said.

Burkhart did not live in the area, but his name surfaced as a suspect after he filed an insurance claim shortly after the fire, Wied said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

- Harry Burkhart's mother, Dorothee Burkhart, is charged in Germany with 19 counts of fraud, including failing to pay for a 2004 breast augmentation surgery and pilfering security deposits from renters.
- A Frankfurt court spokesman said Dorothee Burkhart will go on trial for the fraud charges once she is extradited.

Germany, Portugal borrow to ease crisis

- Italy and Netherlands also managed to sell debt
- Italy has $69 billion in expiring debt to auction off

Europe won some further modest respite from its debt crisis Wednesday as Germany and Portugal became the latest countries to borrow with relative ease ahead of a hazard-filled few weeks for the eurozone.

Both countries saw their borrowing costs dip at the auctions, in a further sign that investors may have temporarily put some of their concerns over the debt crisis to one side at the start of the new year in the wake of fairly-buoyant U.S. economic data.

Germany, the biggest contributor in Europe's bailouts, managed to sell $5.3 billion US in its benchmark 10-year bonds Wednesday at an average yield of 1.93 per cent, down on the previous 1.98 per cent it had to pay. But demand barely covered the bonds on offer.

And Portugal, which was bailed out last April after being locked out of international markets, paid a markedly lower interest rate to borrow $1.3 billion in three-month treasury bills.

The German and Portuguese auctions come ahead of severe tests for eurozone leaders as they try to navigate their way out of their crisis over too much debt in some countries.

Eurozone governments are struggling to convince financial markets that indebted governments will not default and should be able to borrow at affordable rates to repay debts as they come due. Greece, Ireland and Portugal have needed bailouts, while much larger Italy and Spain have also seen their borrowing costs rise ominously.

Italy, the recent focus of the crisis, must borrow in a series of debt auctions beginning Jan. 13. The auctions will test whether the government of new Prime Minister Mario Monti is making progress in regaining market confidence through budget cuts and efforts to improve weak economic growth.

Further trouble could come from a slowing eurozone economy that may already have shrunk in the fourth quarter. Many economists predict an outright recession, which would be two quarters of negative growth. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bankruptcy to save jobs: CEO

JACQUES BOISSINOT/THE CANADIAN PRESS

The head of one of Canada's last two remaining asbestos mines said Wednesday that declaring bankruptcy is the only way the cash-strapped operation has a chance of saving its workers' jobs.

Simon Dupere, president and CEO of Quebec-based LAB Chrysotile, said in an interview that he's confident many of the 350 jobs at the mine will be saved.

"It's not an operation that is overstaffed," Dupere said.

"Is it going to be a little more or a little less? That depends on what works, it depends on the business plan."

Dupere said the company's current financial situation made it impossible to continue operations.

He said the shutdown of its Lac d'amiante du Canada mine in Thetford Mines last fall didn't stem costs and there has been no revenue to deal with them.

Declaring bankruptcy is a key step to getting the financially troubled company back on a solid financial footing.

"We have a structural problem," Dupere said. "We have a problem with fixed costs, and this will be resolved with the (bankruptcy). Now we will talk to everyone involved, we will see how we're going forward and how we'll revive the project."

One possibility that would allow the mine to resume production in 2013 would be the opening of access to an asbestos deposit that is currently blocked.

While workers were surprised by the bankruptcy announcement, the union says the possibility of a recovery provides a ray of hope.

But Gordon Ringuette, a spokesman for the mine's union, says he's waiting to see if the company will use the situation to seek concessions from workers to reduce labour costs.

"We expect that they will ask for concessions," he said. "They're talking about a business plan that has become too expensive and unprofitable."

OF MICE AND THE MAN WHO LOVES THEM

HE SAYS ...

JOHN MAZEROLLE
METRO

I think I love the mouse in my apartment.

It's not the love between a man and a woman, exactly, because I don't know its gender. But it feels right.

It is a forbidden love, frowned upon by the world, and it is a love brought about by fate: Of all the drywall joints in all the townhouses in all the world, it chewed into mine.

And if loving something means wanting it to be free, then I'll squeak it from the rooftops — I love my mouse.

Don't misunderstand: I realize that mice are disease-ridden vermin, which is why Mickey always wore white gloves — for safety's sake.

I'm aware that it's hard to endorse a creature that has used millions of years of evolutionary knowledge to perfect the art of pooping on your counter top.

And, personally, I'm annoyed that the little guy can find enough food in my apartment to survive even though

I can't seem to, no matter how many times I open the fridge.

But, despite all that, I must love the mouse.

Why? Because I can't deal with the alternative.

As a journalist, I often worry that I'm jaded. Cover enough accidents and murders and Vic Toews, and eventually you get so cynical you can talk like this to a stranger: "I know this is a difficult time, but how did you FEEL when your dog fell into the threshers? Oh, don't cry. Please wait until the

But that worry evaporated last winter. I had a mouse back then, you see.

And so I bought glue traps, because the packaging said it was "humane" and it showed a cartoon mouse looking annoyed in the glue, as if it were going to miss its dinner with Speedy, Mickey and Mighty. Why, this was going to be fun!

Well, I don't want to get too gruesome about what happened, but the Gadhafi family would have been appalled. While the mouse squeaked at the same volume as the girl being eaten at the beginning of Jaws, I frantically ran outside with him, promising freedom.

I poured water on him — that's what the packaging said to do — and watched hopefully (run little buddy!) as he stopped moving entirely. Yes, I waterboarded the mouse.

And as I stood over his lifeless body, I vowed then and there that I would only love all the helpless rodents of the world. So, as you can see, I need to love the new mouse.

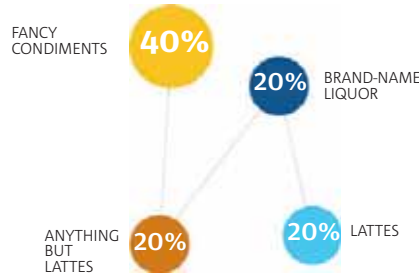

And if I must kill him, I will at least talk to its family, using all my compassion and empathy. Because I know this is a difficult time.

Blackstone is probably one of Edmonton's most under-rated achievements.

Despite racking up Gemini and Rosie awards, very few people seem to know this show is predominantly shot in Edmonton and is slated for a very successful second season, which premieres on APTN Jan. 11.

"If there's one thing I can say about the show it's how phenomenal it is to have this in our city," says Blackstone producer Jesse Szymanski.

"I mean, we hear about all these shows coming out of Vancouver or Toronto, but here we have a Gemini award winning production out of Edmonton. That's something we can be really proud of."

Szymanski goes on to explain her expectations after the show took off after just one season.

"I really feel with season two we made the show even bigger and better. Now, I'm really excited for people to see that."

The excitement hasn't come without a cost.

As producer, Szymanski is often the first to arrive on-set and the last to leave.

She says having her mind race constantly about the show is the biggest thing that keeps her up at night.

"As a producer, you have to handle every facet of the production."

But Szymanski knew this was what she wanted to do with her life from a very young age.

At just 10 years old, she would make home videos and commercials using her grandparents' camcorder.

"When I was in high school, I took an aptitude test and it pointed to broadcast. That was all the affirmation I needed. By 19, I was in the business," she says.

Szymanski hasn't looked back, much like many of her groundbreaking colleagues including actress Michelle Thrush, who plays recovering alcoholic Gail Stoney.

"At first I wasn't sure if I wanted to act because not many aboriginals were doing it," she says.

But after a little coaxing from the late Gordon Tootoosis, Thrush knew she had found her true calling.

"Even though I am nothing like my character, it's such an honour to play her and have the production company trust where I am going with the character."

The horrors of high school

► My Babysitter's a Vampire comes to Canada
► It's a supernatural spin on the trials of being a teen

Debuting in Canada this week is Teletoon's My Babysitter's a Vampire, a younger-skewing take on the monsters-meets-hormones genre also seen in the Twilight film franchise, the campy Space comedy Todd and the Book of Pure Evil, and CTV Two's The Vampire Diaries.

Toronto-bred star Matthew Knight, who plays earnest 14-year-old Ethan, says he hopes young viewers can learn a lesson or two as his show draws over-the-top parallels between the eternal battle of good and evil and the trials of growing up. "I kind of feel like it makes kids ... feel like their (problems) are not the end of the world and they can get through it," 17-year-old Knight says of the show's weekly supernatural calamities.

The series' over-the-top hijinks — which include resurrecting dead family pets and navigating a suspicious school blood drive — are all in service of putting common teen anxieties in to perspective, adds co-star Atticus Mitchell, who plays

► The series My Babysitter's a Vampire is based on a TV movie of the same name.

Ethan's trouble-making best friend Benny. The new series is based on the TV movie of the same name, which centred on the awkward Ethan, his precocious little sister Jane and his mischievous pal Benny.

In that 2010 comedy, Ethan's hopes of shedding his geek status are thwarted when his mom decides he's not mature enough to watch Jane and hires a babysitter from his school.

Ethan is mortified when it turns out to be his long-time crush Sarah, played by Vanessa Morgan, who just happens to be a newly formed vampire. "It's definitely a little bit lighter in the way that it's shot and the way the characters deal with it and just more family friendly," says Knight.

► The History channel to debut miniseries on mankind

A+E NETWORKS, JOE ALBLAS/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After its successful series on the history of America in 2010, television's History channel is setting its sights even higher.

The network said Tuesday that a 12-hour miniseries, Mankind: The Story of All of Us, will debut late this year. History, seen in more than 300 million homes worldwide, will offer different versions of the series in different parts of the world, the first time it has ever done that.

America the Story of Us hadn't even concluded when History executives, impressed by its ratings, began talking about what to do next, said Nancy Dubuc, the network's president and general manager.

"Rather than take a slice of the America story and do something more in depth on that, we decided to go bigger and broader," she said. The new series starts with the Big Bang and traces the development of humans on a planet where the vast majority of species go extinct, said Jane Root, the project's executive producer.

Root described it as a "real action-adventure" project, one that encompasses astronomy, geology and other sciences along with history. The series traces the development of tools and the construction of the pyramids. Air dates have not been set for the series, which will stretch over six days, but it will be within the last three months of 2012, the network said.

► The Courage Campaign targets Kim Kardashian as part of its campaign for a proposed November ballot initiative to raise taxes on the wealthy.

November ballot initiative to raise taxes on the wealthiest Californians.

The video ad flashes images of Kardashian enjoying the good life, proclaiming that "being on TV has changed my life, because you get lots of free stuff."

It says Kardashian made $12 million US in 2010 but paid just one percentage point more in California income taxes than someone making $47,000 US — hard 10.3 per cent versus 9.3 per cent.

The video ad, which is posted at Taxkim.com, urges Kardashian to support the proposal for a tax increase. "Not everyone was born a Kardashian, but we all need to pay our fair share," it says.

A spokeswoman for Kardashian, Pearl Servat, did not respond to a request for comment Tuesday from The Associated Press.

The Courage Campaign and the California Federation of Teachers are among the groups backing a so-called millionaire's tax that would raise income tax rates by three per cent to five per cent for individuals who make more than $1 million US a year.

Proponents say the tax would raise about $6 billion US to help fund public schools and local services that have been hit hard during the recession, such as social services, programs for the elderly and public safety.

Tax revenue to the state has dropped $17 billion US since the recession began during the 2007-08 fiscal year, requiring billions of dollars a year in budget cuts.

The millionaire's tax is one of several ballot proposals circulating in California seeking to increase income taxes on the wealthy as a way to help close the state's annual budget deficit.

In 2010, about 41,000 Californians reported adjusted gross income above $1 million US, paying about $13.1 billion US in taxes to the state, according to the Franchise Tax Board.

A nearly century-old hunting boot is catching on with a younger generation that sees the utilitarian footwear as hip. L.L. Bean's familiar duck boot with leather uppers and rubber soles has become something of a fashion statement owing to its newfound popularity on college campuses, the company says.

Dewey in the dark winter

It's January and it's cold and dry Yes this is obvious, but the fixes for your chapped skin may not be Try these tips from dermatologists to save your skin from the rough season ahead

Use a conditioner in your hair more frequently during the winter.

Showers

Don't take extra hot showers. As much as you want the comfort of that heat when it's chilly, there's less moisture in the air during winter and hot showers can further dehydrate your skin, says Dr. Neil Sadick, clinical professor of dermatology at Weill Cornell Medical College in New York.

"Make showers as tepid as you can tolerate," he says. If you can't stand the chill, find a space heater safe for bathroom use.

Moisturizing is so important this time of year because it protects the outer layer from winter's wrath while retaining natural moisture from within.

Hair and nails

Don't ignore hair and nails. They're made of the same compounds as skin and crack in similar fashion, says Dr. Alicia Zalka, a dermatology professor at Yale. "I don't think people realize that when nails split it's 90 per cent from lack of proper moisture." B vitamin supplements can improve skin, hair and nails during winter.

"They're better for the skin when ingested, rather than when you put them on the skin topically," Zalka says.

If you've got the driest of dry skin, the best defence for that is a couple of days of plain old Vaseline.

DR. ALICIA ZALKA, ASSOCIATE CLINICAL PROFESSOR OF DERMATOLOGY AT YALE

Stay away from products that contain detergents because they can remove protective, essential oils.

"Humidify the air in your home, especially in your bedroom so that healing and repair can take place while you sleep."

DR. DAVID ORENTREICH
CLINIQUE DERMATOLOGIST

Don't assume that drinking water or replacing fluids internally is enough to keep your skin healthy during cold weather.

Sunblock

Don't forget sunblock. It's just as important during winter as it is in summer, experts say, especially during winter sports like skiing at high altitude.

"In the winter it feels cold because very little infrared light reaches the earth," Dr. David Orentreich says. "The opposite is true in the summer. However, in the winter ultraviolet light is 90 per cent as strong as it is in the summer but since we can't feel or see it we mistakenly think it's absent, too."

Application of a broad-band screen once a day should suffice, Sadick says. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE KIT

By Deborah Fulsang

"Eighty-five per cent of women have cellulite and the 15 per cent that don't, think they do," says Dr. Shimon Eckhouse, The Kit's expert for face advisor. His company explores light-based technology to target and treat the dreaded orange-peel skin.

No wonder the industry is booming. One new report claimed sales for cellulite products hit the $11.8-million mark last year in the United States. Safe to say the category is healthy here in Canada, too.

But beware, says Dr. Lisa Kellett, a dermatologist in Toronto, there's no magic bullet. "Topicals are not drugs. They're not going to go down to a level that they're going to get rid of cellulite," she says. "They might plump up the skin temporarily, much like if you went home and took a loofah to your skin and scrubbed at

it. You could cause swelling in the skin to improve the appearance."

The bottom line on cellulite? "There is no cure." You can, however, make surface improvements. And for many, of course, appearances count.

How to 'make it work' after losing weight

There are people out there who really do stick to their New Year's resolution and take off those last 10 pounds – or more.

But sometimes, says fashion guru Tim Gunn, they don't know how to show it off, or even find clothes that fit.

"Once you've reached your goal, it's time to go shopping or at least alter your old clothing. ... My mantra about 'getting' fashion is silhouette, proportion and fit. When they are in balance, you'll look great in whatever you're wearing," he says.

When women are in a transitional phase, he suggests a wrap-style top or dress, which basically adjusts itself to changes in your body.

He'd also steer people toward V necklines instead of a crewneck or boatneck. V necks lead one's eye up to the wearer's face, he explains, which can make a flattering line.

Pants often can be taken in to accommodate a smaller size because they have mostly straight seams, Gunn explains, but jackets and blazers are trickier for a tailor to fix if shoulder seams start to creep down the arm. Men especially have an issue with collars.

The least flattering look? Clothes that are baggy, says Gunn, the Project Runway mentor and soon-to-be host of the daytime talk show The Revolution.

Sweet potato ravioli

For the pasta:

1 Whisk together whole eggs and yolk in a bowl. Put flour in a big mixing bowl, make a well in the centre and pour the eggs into the well. Slowly bring in flour using a fork and knead by hand until a dough forms. Add more flour if dough is sticky. Leave to rest for at least 10 minutes.

2 Take out your pasta machine. Cut dough into 8 pieces and roughly form into triangles. Dust with flour. Starting on the widest setting, put one piece through the machine. Fold the dough over itself and go through again on the same setting. Repeat this process on each setting, going from widest to thinnest until you are left with a long thin sheet.

3 Repeat the process with all the pieces of dough, setting aside on clean workspace and covering with clingfilm.

For the filling:

1 Steam the sweet potato pieces for 20 minutes or until cooked through. Mash in a bowl and stir in cheeses. Season with salt, pepper and nutmeg. Let the mixture cool before proceeding.

2 Dollop filling along half the pasta sheets, leaving 5 cm between each spoonful. Using a pastry brush, brush egg white along the tops and bottoms of the pasta sheets and between each dollop of filling. Lay the untouched pasta sheets over the filled ones. Using your fingers, seal the edges around each bit of filling. With paring knife, cut ravioli into squares.

3 Using your fingers, pinch each ravioli's edges to be sure that they're sealed.

4 Bring pot of salted water to boil. Cool ravioli for 2 ½ minutes. Spoon butter over ravioli. Sprinkle with sage leaves and add Parmesan to taste.

What is a good new year's resolution for something I can do within my house?
Suzy Homemaker

Dear Suzy Homemaker:

After giving this very question some thought just a few weeks ago, I personally decided to call 2012 "the year of the container".

So what does this mean? Well for those of you who know me, I love to use containers to hold things.

Containers keep my cupboards as organized and clean as possible.

For example, my shoe shine kit has a small container all of its own — it holds everything I could ever want or need to do with my shoes, including extra shoe laces.

My wrapping paper, last season's clothing and even new toiletries are all in containers.

So my suggestion for you is to re-organize your personal life with clean well-organized containers that are all labelled!

This helps keep cup-

Still something to play for

► Canada tries to shake off disappointment of loss to Russia and focus on beating Finland

The disappointment was still in the eyes of the Canadian players a day after their semifinal loss at the world junior hockey championship.

As they prepared to play Finland for the bronze medal, furrowed brows and grim expressions indicated Tuesday's 6-5 loss to Russia was still on their minds.

But they will have to let it go for Canada to avoid finishing out of the medals at the tournament for the first time in 14 years.

Finland, a dark horse which has improved since the competition got underway, will certainly be motivated to win bronze Thursday after falling 8-1 to Canada in the tournament-opener in Edmonton.

Russia will play for its second straight title in Thursday's gold-medal game against Sweden.

As per his usual practice, Canadian head coach Don Hay wouldn't reveal whether it will be Scott Wedgewood or Mark Visentin in Canada's net Thursday because he tells his starting goalie the night before the game.

While Wedgewood admitted he was sore after Russian defender Alex Khokhlachev crashed into him in the second period Tuesday, he said he would be able to play Thursday.

"You've got to win a game to get a medal now," Wedgewood said Wednesday. "We've got to take pride in that and it still means something to us."

"Ten years from now looking back, you go into that game and don't give it your all and you walk away with nothing ... it's better to have something."

Without the adrenaline that a possible gold medal brings, the Canadians were feeling the slings and arrows of the tournament.

The upper-body injury Scott Harrington suffered in the preliminary round kept him out of Wednesday's practice. Hay didn't sound sure the defenceman would be able to play Thursday.

What's more, Canada will be down to 11 forwards for Thursday's game after faceoff specialist Boone Jenner was suspended for spearing Russian captain Evgeni Kuznetsov in the second period of the semifinal.

In sifting through the wreckage of Canada's gold-medal hopes, the host country's meltdown in the second period versus Russia stands out.

A loss of composure left Canada short-staffed and allowed Russia to score their fifth goal on a power play, which came back to haunt Canada in the third period.

It was when the Canadians stayed out of the penalty box in the third and got back on track in terms of their gameplan, that they were able to mount their thrilling comeback that fell just short.

When Brendan Gallagher punched Russian defenceman Mikhail Naumenkov in the face behind the net late in the second period, Russia turned it into a power-play goal to take a 5-1 lead.

Russian defenceman Ildar Isangulov later elbowed Jenner and was given a two-minute minor, which was subsequently turned into a one-game suspension for a hit to the head.

"When players get frustrated they do things they regret," Hay said. "Whether it's misconduct penalties, major penalties or just selfish penalties, you usually regret those type of penalties."

"When you can play with determination, you don't have time to get frustrated. That's what we did in the third. In the second, we played with a little more frustration because it wasn't going our way."

Oilers preview

6 p.m.
TV: SNET

The Oilers (16-20-3) travel to St. Louis (22-12-5), which has a league-leading 15 home wins so far this season. The Blues have won five of their last 10, their first rough patch since Ken Hitchcock was hired as head coach. Jaroslav Halak, who has been splitting starts with Brian Elliott, made 34 saves in a 4-1 win over the Coyotes on Tuesday. David Perron had two assists in the win, bringing his season total to 13 points in 14 games after missing over a year with a concussion. Andy McDonald (concussion) is skating with St. Louis but is still out indefinitely.

Can Russia make it two golds in a row?

Russia will be hoping history repeats itself in the final of the world junior hockey championship, while Sweden is looking to end a long drought.

The Russians captured gold in Buffalo, N.Y., last year with a dramatic 5-3 comeback win over Canada. The Swedes, meanwhile, haven't won the tournament since 1981 in Fussen, Germany.

Sweden erased a two-goal deficit to beat Finland 3-2 in Tuesday's early semifinal, while Russia held off a hard-charging Canadian squad to win 6-5 in the late game.

"I think the Swedes are like us, gone through a great maturation, because they haven't won the world juniors in something like 30 years," Russian coach Valeri Bragin said through an interpreter Wednesday. "Before the finals, the chances are always 50-50. They have desire, we have desire, so the game will show who is stronger."

Russian forward Nail Yakupov had four assists in the win over Canada and combined with linemates Yevgeni Kuznetsov (three goals, one assist) and Alexander Khokhlachev (one goal, one assist) for 10 points.

"I'm pretty excited to play ... in the final," said Yakupov, a highly-touted NHL draft prospect who plays for the Ontario Hockey League's Sarnia Sting. "It's (the) last game in world juniors, so everybody want to win. I want to win this cup because I never win something like big tournament."

While Kuznetsov wasn't made available to talk with reporters after practice, Khokhlachev sang his captain's praises instead.

"He is playing great for us and he's one of our best players," said Khokhlachev.
